

DR. G. T. BURTO
RESIDENT DENTIST
TEETH EXTRACTED
WITHOUT PAIN

Office—Hayden Block, up stairs
SPRINGFIELD, KY.
All Dental Work Strictly
First-class

DR. J. C. MUELL

Physician and Surgeon
Office hours 8 to 9 a.m., 1 to 2 p.m.,
Offices over Hayden's Drugstore

J. H. Lampton, M. D.

Office in Opera House.
Office Phone No. 2.
Residence No. 33

W. F. GRIGSBY

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
Office over Popper's Bank,
SPRINGFIELD, KY.

Dr. M. W. HYATT

Office over Red Cross Drug Store. Office hours: Hyatt 10:30 a.m. to 12 m.; 4 to 5 p.m.

JOHN Y. MAYES

FUNERAL DIRECTOR
AND LICENSED EMBALMER
TELEPHONE
DAY 19, NIGHT 74
SPRINGFIELD, KY.

DR. W. F. TRUSTY

PRACTICAL
DENTIST
Office over Hayden's Barber Dental work at reasonable prices.
All work guaranteed.
SPRINGFIELD, KY.

Railroad Schedule.

Following is the time schedule now in effect on the Bardonia and Springfield branch railroad.
Mo. 41—Leaves Louisville at 4:30 p. m.; Bardonia Junction 5:22 p. m.; Bardonia 5:55 p. m.; arrives at Springfield 6:55 p. m.
No. 42—Leaves Springfield at 6:50 a. m.; Bardonia 7:45 a. m.; Bardonia Junction 7:50 a. m.; arrives at Louisville 8:20 a. m.
No. 43—Leaves Louisville at 7:20 a. m.; Bardonia Junction 8:55 a. m.; Bardonia 10:05 a. m.;
arrives at Springfield 11:40 p. m.
No. 44—Leaves Springfield at
1:00 p. m.; Bardonia 2:50 p. m.; Bardonia Junction 4:10 p. m.; arrives at Louisville 5:45 p. m.

Fruit and Shade Trees

Strawberry Plants

Asparagus, Blackberries, Raspberries, Hones, Rhubarb, etc.
Write for free catalogue. We are no agents.

J. P. Billenmeyer & Son,

Lexington, Ky.

COLLEGE GIRL AND PARENT

There Should Be No Impeachable Gilt When the Course is Finished.

Some general principles are formulated by Marion Talbot, dean of women at Chicago University, to secure cooperation for a better understanding between the three factors in education for women. In the first place, it is the duty of the college to strengthen, not to destroy or even to weaken, the family life. Every possible social and educational influence should be called upon to develop the latent virtues of the family relation, although many of its attributes, once gained, never outgrow and are rapidly disappearing in the second place, the national and international method of maintaining the interest of the parent is to have the child encouraged or perhaps compelled to formulate some acceptable reason for taking a college course and incidentally to plan for her future life.

In most cases the parent will not companion the child, by step in sympathy and understanding, and the duty of having a wide and almost impossible gift between them. So often happens when the college is finished, the father and mother find that their child has been different from the child they thought they knew. The child has been close together to spirit and mutual understanding. The child has been a truly essential factor in the home life, and on the other hand, the parent will realize that the child's training powers that in spite of strictly in touch with the child that appear to them—North American Review.

TOWN. Local Happenings of Interest.
The Freshest and Latest.
All About Yourself, Friends and Acquaintances. TOPICS.

Pure Jellico coal at B. D.
Lakes.
See the moving picture show at the Walnut Street Theatre.

FOR SALE—140 head of stock ewes. B. W. Nellick.
FOR SALE—2 coming 4-year-old mares. W. H. Leachman.

Excellent shows are being produced at the Walnut Street Theatre.

FOR SALE—Good Jersey cow or Shorthorn cow. E. F. Donnelly.

B. D. Lakes has a large supply of coal, the best on the market, 80 pounds to the bushel.

C. Just in ready-to-wear tailored and untrimmed hats, the new things at Mrs. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Webb are rejoicing over the arrival of the fine 10 pound girl, Sarah Eunise.

The sale of C. W. Hagan on last Saturday was well attended and everything sold well.

Let B. D. Lakes furnish your coal for next winter. The best coal at most reasonable prices.

I have a saw mill on my place and have lumber of all kinds for sale. W. S. Y. Goodlett.

COAT—In excellent condition.
Extra quality. Cheap. Write of phone. R. L. Baldick, Springfield, Ky.

See the new man tailored coat suits at Mrs. Kate Williams they are the right things at the right prices.

FOR SALE—Good seed rye and wheat, also good potato onions. C. L. Brady.

Now is the time to fill your coal house with pure Jellico coal and save the advance in price.
See A. D. Lake at once.

McElroy & Wharton sold for Mr. R. L. Smith his farm of 270 acres near Maud to Mr. H. C.
Curtis. The price paid was $13,500.

Hon. Thos. B. McGreggor, Republican candidate for Attorney General will address the voters of Washington county at the Court House next Friday.

Lost—Between Springfield and Fredericktown a blue serge coat last Saturday. Finder will please leave same at Mr. Sam Anderson's.

Mr. J. Forrester Cusick, of Louisville is at his father's, Mr.
Ed Cusick, for one month only from August 21 to September 21 and will be glad to have you phone him about anything you wish in photographs.

The Colored Fair commences today and will continue the remainder of the week. They will doubtless have a good attendance as the organization numbers among the most enterprising colored men of the county.

Sherman Martin was tried in Judge Litsy's Court Tuesday on a charge instigated by Dick Avery, who charged Martin with passing upon him. He was held to await the action of the grand jury on $50 bond.

Mr. L. A. Bauns purchased of Mr. Chas. Cadden, his stock in the Springfield Tobacco Varieties Co. The house was very successfully conducted last session and will be open for sales this year.

Now is the chance while Forrester Cusick is at home to have your photographs made. Phone him at Ed Cusick. He will go to your home and make anything you wish in first class photographs.

The County has been visited by several heavy rains during the past week. A very heavy rain fell in certain parts of the county on last Friday night, and during the early part of Saturday morning. During the down-pour there was considerable lightning and thunder. The Opera House was struck and slightly damaged.

the son of Robert G. and Laura Hirsh McChord. He was educated at Covington Institute. In this county after completing his education he entered the mercantile business which was his occupation all his life. He began life as a clerk in the store of G. Phillips and began business in this city about 1880 and continued here until he moved to Winchester about nine years ago, during the time he was here he was associated in business with Mr. P. R. Neale and Mr. W. K.
Robertson. As a merchant he was a great success. He was a good business man and was highly regarded by all with whom he dealt. After being in business at Winchester for two years he moved to Lebanon where he remained until his death.

Shortly after engaging in business here he was married to Miss Enice Harlan, of Danville, who with one daughter, Mrs. W. P.
Hurt, survives. He was a brother of Mr. W. C. McChord, who lives here.

Funeral services and burial will be conducted in Lebanon this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The protracted meeting which is being conducted by Rev. A.
Paul Bagby, of Glasgow, will conclude Friday. Large crowds have been in attendance at each service.

Family Reunion.
A most enjoyable reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Ed Lawrence, of Mackville, Aug.
27 a most excellent dinner was served. Those present were Mr.
Duellen Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs.
William Milton and son, Earnest, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lawrence and children, Katie, Rosie and Margie; Mr. and Mrs. James Donnell and daughter, Jodie; Mr. and Mrs.
Richard Wilkerson and daughter, Maggie Belle; Mr. and Mrs.
Albe Pearler and two daughters, Ora and Edna; Mr. and Mrs. Paul McChord and daughter, Bertie and Sallie Ann, and two sons, Frank and Edgar, and Mr. Mandville Lawrence. The day was well spent and there was rejoicing hoping to meet again.

St. Joseph College Opened Historic St. Joseph College at Bardonia was formally opened Tuesday with elaborate ceremony. Many distinguished guests were present on the occasion, chief among them was Mr. Edmund Falconer, United States Delegate to the Appointed.

St. Joseph was opened in 1919 by Bishop Joseph Plaget and was in charge of the secular clergy until 1948. When the Monsieur took charge and controlled it until 1951 when it was suspended because of the civil war It was opened after the war by the secular priests who held it until 1959 when it was again suspended and has been idle until the purchase by the Xaverian brothers. Louis Philippe an exiled King of France spent one year as a teacher there during the time of Bishop Plaget and it was he who donated the paintings now hanging in St.
Joseph church, for one of which the price of $100,000 was refused.
Among the famous men educated at St. Joseph were Archbishop Martin John Spalding, Jefferson Davis, Attorney General Agustus Garland, and Assistant Attorney General Zach Montgomery.

On July 11th, coughed and coughed He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found he had the lungs and started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life," he writes, "for it made a new man out of the old man. I am now doing well. I can eat, sleep, and work. I can cough, cold, and asthma, cough, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy, its throbbed, known remedy.

Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Hayden & Robertson.

A CARD

I want to thank the people of Springfield and vicinity for the splendid patronage they gave me the past season. I assure you that every purchase however small is appreciated, and I cordially invite you back this Fall.

Mrs. Kate Williams.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION

OF THE
First National Bank OF SPRINGFIELD,
in the State of Kentucky, at the close of business September 1, 1911.
No. 1767

RESOURCES

Cash and Discounts	$275,073.56
Overdrafts secured and un- secured	5,684.80
U. S. Bonds to secure cir- culation	50,000.00
Banking houses, furniture and fixtures	4,000.00
Due from National Banks	138.31
Due from State and Private Banks and Bankers, Trust Companies and Savings Banks	139.68
Due from approved Reserve Agents	2,919.50
Notes of other National Banks	285.00
Federal Paper Currency and United States Notes	32.94
Lawful Money Reserve in Vault	812,211.20
Legal tender notes	14,400.00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)	18,611.20
Total	$361,984.99

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock paid in	$50,000.00
Surplus fund	42,000.00
Undivided Profits, less ex- penses and taxes paid	5,237.93
National Bank Notes out- standing	50,000.00
Due to other National Banks	97.66
Due to State and Private Banks and Bankers	164.98
Due to approved Reserve Agents	2,186.91
Individual deposits subject to check	128,382.08
Time certificates of deposit Notes and bills receivable, including certificates of deposit for money borrowed	50,414.83 6,500.00
Total	$361,984.99

STATE OF KENTUCKY, COUNTY OF WASH-INGTON, ss:
I, A. C. McElroy, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

A. C. McElroy, Cashier.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of September 1911.

CHAS. M. McCHORD, Notary Public CORRECT ATTEST:
W. D. CLAYBROOK,
W. H. GRUNDY, Directors

TO PLEASE IS TO SERVE
Any literary work which conveys pleasing impressions is service to the public.

Any literary work which conveys faithful facts or pleasing impressions is a service to the public. It is when a service is to the public that the writer renders. The slightest novels are a blessing to those in distress; the shortest treatise is a greater blessing to the ignorant than the most elaborate treatise on the same subject. To please is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you rejoice, it is difficult to do the one thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article, every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to color, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stumble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and encouraging, were it only to a single reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single
reader. He will be unfortunate, indeed, if
he fails to find a single reader. To please
is to serve; and so far from the
being difficult to instruct while you
rejoice, it is difficult to do the one
thoroughly without the other. Some
part of the writer or his life will
drop out to make a vivid book; and to
read a novel which was conceived with
any force, to multiply experience and
to exercise the sympathies. Every article,
every piece of verse, every essay,
every story, is destined to please,
however trivial, through the minds of
some portion of the public, and to col-
or, however transiently, their thoughts.
The writer has a chance to stum-
ble, by the way, on something pleasing,
interesting, scholarly and en-
couraging, were it only to a single reader. He

10